

Miller's supplies healthy popcorn treats for special events and school fundraisers. (Kirk)

Stacy LeJeune creates upcycled accessories from old ties, purses and belts. Cricket proudly models "Sophie's Fancy Pet Apparel." (Kirk)

Dionne Warr makes natural laundry soaps out of her home. She uses Maritime-made ingredients whenever she can. (Kirk)

Dont Forget to Dartmouth Market

Gordon Tucker and his stepdaughter Laura Watson entertain with fiddle and folk songs. (Shen)

Alderney Landing Farmers' Market is a bustling centre of craft and food vendors and live music, open every weekend.

By Chengcheng Shen and Shannon Kirk

Christina and Philip Wall bake all their bread the night before Saturday's market. They also sell canned goods and baked treats. (Kirk)

Using new and recycled woods and metals, Jerry Walsh creates unique garden décor. (Shen)

Romama has been selling her knit hats and toques at the market for about five years. (Kirk)

Dana Wood, a chef for 15 years, sharpens market-goers' dull knives. (Shen)

the

Lisa Whitman designs towel and diaper cakes. Her first cake was made for her grandson's baby shower. (Shen)

Margaret Lamb sells postcards with photos taken by her daughter. Lamb is raising money for her daughter's double lung transplant. (Shen)